WASTE RECYCLING SYSTEM

Water that drains from the air conditioner is free from the chlorine, salt or any chemicals, so it can be used for watering the plants, or in wash area. As in summer air contains more water particles (humidity). In the hot weather of Nagpur City, air conditioner on continuous running may produce five to ten-liter water in a day.

The water comes from air conditioner due to dehumidification process. This water is just the vapour present in the room air. In this process, the water is actually undergoing a distillation process indirectly. (Evaporation from water bodies into air ->> condensing the vapor by cooling coils). This distilled water is very good for plants. So, we can use the water from A/C for plants. A bucket to air conditioner drain hose/pipe is attached, captured the water which can be used can for cleaning purpose or directly plants pot can be kept.

Celebration of No Vehicle Day

The impact of surplus amount of CO<sub>2</sub> emission through anthropogenic activities has created an alarming situation and thus become a major suspect for global warming and climate change worldwide. Carbon dioxide emission through vehicular exhaust is one of them. To mitigate partially a Zero emission day activity was scheduled on 25/11/2022 at Institute Premises to create awareness of environmental pollution among students.
